LET LOCAL SCHOOLS KNOW "WHAT'S BUZZIN'"

"What's Buzzin'," the National Honey Board's educational videotape, comes with a teacher's guide which includes a poster and worksheets.

The 10-minute videotape is designed for school children grades 4-6 and features child reporters who investigate pollination, honey bees and honey for their newscast -- "What's Buzzin'." The children interview Dr. Jim Tew, national apiculture extension agent, and Dwight Stoller, a beekeeper from Ohio.

The videotape and teacher's guide are available for $15. To receive the material, send a check, money order or Visa/Mastercard number and expiration date to the National Honey Board office.

Let your local schools know what's buzzin'!
